Warren Huffer Wins Fed 100 for 2008

Last week, DOE's own Warren Huffer was honored as a 2008 winner at the Federal 100 Awards Gala. The prestigious award known as the Fed 100, is sponsored by Federal Computer Week. Mr. Huffer has over 36 years of federal service and is currently serving as the Director of the Office of Corporate Information Systems and Program Manager for the Integrated Management Navigation System (iManage). This year's theme for the Fed 100 was, "Agents of Change," and Warren Huffer has certainly demonstrated this by being on the forefront of implementing change through iManage.

STRIPES is the next iManage system to be deployed joining other systems such as STARS, IDW and CHRIS. We are pleased to have one of our own recognized for this prestigious award.

Ready, Set, Go: STRIPES CBTs Available on the OLC2!

After much anticipation, the STRIPES Project Team is pleased to announce that the CBTs are up and available on the OLC2. Please visit <https://olc2.energy.gov> to access the STRIPES CBTs. Once you log-in, they can be located by searching in the "DOE Courses" course catalog or by typing "STRIPES" in the "Search Catalog" box at the top of the page. Consider the STRIPES Navigation course as a pre-requisite for all other courses and select from Initiating Procurements, Reviewer and Approver or Micro-Purchases according to your job requirements. Once the CBT is complete the first time, you may return to your Learning History and relaunch the material as many times as you wish. Please help spread the word to your colleagues across the Department!

Policy Corner: STRIPES Acquisition Letter in Progress

The DOE Office of Procurement and Assistance Policy (Policy) has completed its draft of the Acquisition Letter (AL) pertaining to the Department's usage of STRIPES. The AL serves as the official policy document on STRIPES is in internal Policy review. Once the internal revisions are made, the authorizing document will go to the Procurement Policy Advisory Group (PPAG) and Office of General Counsel for comment. This significant Acquisition Letter provides users the guidance and authorization to use STRIPES once it is deployed.
